

Constable and resident crash

Motorcycle rider injured during collision

A Drayton Valley man is in stable condition following a motorcycle-RCMP car mishap last week.

Terry Glen Iversen is in the University of Alberta Hospital after crashing into the side of an RCMP car driven by Cst. Tim Vatamaniuk of Drayton Valley.

Iversen received multiple fractures to both legs and his right arm, according to Cpl. Tom Turner of the RCMP.

Iversen was travelling east on 50th Avenue and Vatamaniuk was making a left turn from 46th Street on to 50th Avenue when the accident occurred. The accident happened on Tuesday, June 19 at about 9:35 p.m.

The motorcycle was totaled "I would assume," said Turner.

The police car received damage to the left rear door and quarter panel and was leaking propane from its fuel tank. Fire crews were on the scene with foam to keep the fuel from catching fire.

As of Monday, no charges had been laid and the matter was still under investigation.

Witness wanted

RCMP are looking for witnesses to a car-truck accident last Friday afternoon in Drayton Valley.

Aaron Fleury, driving a white Chevrolet pickup, and Amy Solits, driving a tan Colt, collided at about 3:45 p.m. at the intersection of 50th Street and 52nd Avenue.

Solits was taken to the hospital and later released.

Although the weather was clear when the accident happened, rain soon came down which hampered the extraction of Solits from her car.

Constable Joe Robitaille said the entire left side of Solits's car was damaged but the pickup's bumper was only pushed in a little.

Anyone with information on the accident can contact Const. Robitaille at the Drayton Valley RCMP.

'Financially unviable'

Drayton Valley opts out of games

By Lorne Christensen

Drayton Valley will not be hosting the 1986 senior games.

The local senior games organizing committee voted at their meeting last week not to host the games because it was "financially unviable."

The financial problems revolved around a request from the local group to the Alberta Sport Council (ASC) for $107,000 in additional funding. The ASC did not grant the group what they asked for even though Max Gibb, ASC executive director, said "they did the best they could."

Les Bannerman, chairman of the local organizers, said their position had been "clearly pointed out" in a letter to the ASC.

"We drafted it in a blunt, bureaucratic way and it outlines what we wanted," Bannerman told the group, "making it clear if we didn't get it, that it wouldn't be financially viable to hold the games."

The committee echoed the problems with the financing issue.

Marty Prentice, a member of the committee, commented "the money could be better spent on something else."

Olive Jouan, the senior's representative on the committee, added it would be better to "let it go now and let another community get on with it." Mayor Bob Mayhew summed up the group's feelings by saying it was very disappointing and he challenged the committee to go out and do something for the community.

Despite the feelings of being disappointed with the decision the committee voted to dissolve and let the games be awarded to another centre.

This decision was one of the alternatives the ASC had given to the group. Other alternatives in the funding issue included running the games in two shifts, reducing the number of athletes attending, obtaining other accommodations for the athletes and finally, to review the budget.

All of the alternatives were turned down by the committee at their last meeting in May.

The decision not to host the games means the ASC will have to find another site in the near future.

Gibb said they will be "looking at all their options and reviewing the previous communities that bid."

Gibb added the decision on another games site would probably be made in a month's time because there is not a big rush with the games more than a year away.

Grande Prairie, Drumheller, Medicine Hat and Camrose are the other alternatives.

Bill Fowler, chairman of the senior games committee in Camrose where the games have been held the last three times, said he had "mixed feelings."

"I couldn't believe in June (of 1984) when it was announced Drayton Valley was to be the host community," Fowler explained.

"That decision was made before they saw what we did."

"Personally, the feeling was they called a strike on us before the pitcher threw the ball," Fowler added.

He also pointed out that when Camrose hosted the first senior games in 1980 they had less than five months "to put the show on the road."

They hosted the games again in 1982 and in 1984.

A & W owners win special award

Winning awards is not new to Bill and Liz Hawryluk.

But the most recent merit award was special because it was the first one their A & W restaurant in Drayton Valley had won.

They also own the A & W in Jasper, where they have won four merit awards.

The merit awards are given to A & W operators across Canada that meet the "high standards of an internal quality audit."

At the last unannounced audit the local A & W scored a whopping 99.2 per cent, one of the highest marks given out. The audits are done unknown to the A & W operators and they find out the results later.

The mark is based on food quality, service, cleanliness, and appearance of staff.

Out of 270 A & W restaurants in Canada, approximately 80 merit awards were handed out.

Bill and Liz travelled to the A & W national convention in San Diego in early March to pick up the award that is based on three audits during the year.

In the other two audits they scored 90.8 per cent and 93.5 per cent.

"A & W has been working hard to get better," Bill Hawryluk said. "All the operators realize the need for optimum service and quality."

But Bill and Liz are hoping to "ease back" and let their four boys handle the business more. Currently the two oldest boys run the Jasper location, which the Hawryluks have owned since 1967.

Hawryluk says he is really pleased to be in Drayton Valley which is obvious through the "thousands of dollars in improvements" they have made to the local eating establishments.

Bill and Liz have been at the Drayton Valley A & W for a little more than two years and they employ 12 part-time staff.

But what Hawryluk really strives for is the customers' satisfaction.
"We get lots and lots of repeat customers," he points out.

He says they are grateful for the customers in Drayton Valley.

He adds that when customers show their appreciation it "makes you feel a lot less tired."

Carefoot upset

Councillor wants answers to grant issue

The Town of Drayton Valley will receive $98,480 through the Community Recreation Cultural Grant Program this year.

That's the good news.

The unfortunate news is that a formula has already been worked out by the town and has the blessing of the recreation department as to how the money will be distributed.

The biggest chunk of the grant...$49,240 is earmarked for improvements at the Centennial Civic Centre. The town will match the grant creating $98,480 which may not even be enough to update the washrooms, replace the puck boards and install a new public address system.

Next in line to benefit from this grant is the Drayton Valley Municipal Library. They are to receive $24,620 which will also be matched by the town.

Of the remaining funds, $14,772 will go toward town recreation operations with the remaining $9,848 going to the town's master plan.

What should have the citizens irate is the fact that the cultural portion of the grant is all going toward the library. There's no money for other cultural-related groups.

And that has Councillor Claire Carefoot upset. Carefoot wants to know about money for other cultural groups. She took a stand for other groups, like the DV Players, at the recreation board meeting and while she didn't get the answers she wanted, has promised to look into the matter.

Cultural groups looking for money should get on Carefoot's bandwagon.

Furthermore, the 110 service clubs, organizations and teams who rely on grant money for their survival should demand some answers.

The only money available to them is the $14,772 which will be matched by the town.

The $29,444 available in that pot will give each service club, organization and team in Drayton Valley $133.83 each. For most that's not enough to pay the utility bill.

If you have any questions about the grant formula, contact Councillor Carefoot. She's promised answers.

Scenic setting

If you're looking to get away for a day, try the relaxing atmosphere at the Easyford campground. There's cooking facilities for mom, a playground for the kids and a ball diamond close by for dad. It's a short drive from Drayton Valley.

Parking lot used instead of washrooms

Unfortunately the 1986 Alberta Senior Games will not be held in Drayton Valley.

Money was the issue.

The provincial government offered $125,000. The hosts accepted that and demanded another $107,000. When the additional funds didn't materialize, a decision to 'throw in the towel' was made.

The total price tag for the games was $307,671.50. For a two-day event that kind of money was way out of line.

The province will likely be the scapegoats in this issue, but we question the costs.

For example, the budget for public relations for Drayton Valley's version of the '86 games was $25,000. That, for coffee shop talk, is $20,000 higher than Camrose. Something is wrong somewhere.

But, that's water under the bridge as the saying goes. Now we have to live with the committee's decision and hope it doesn't hurt our chances to host other major events.

Editor's Notes

The three members of our sales team — Kelly Stone, Linda McGinn and Doris Hendrix attended a one-day motivational seminar last week.

Charlie Mouser, internationally known marketing consultant with more than 30 years experience in advertising, public relations and people motivation was the guest speaker.

It proved to be a great opportunity for our people to brush up on their selling skills, which will lead to a better relationship with our advertisers. Mouser describes this relationship as a LOVE AFFAIR.

You can also write the obituary for the Makin Pulp and Paper Mill that was planned for Drayton Valley.

The Calgary-based Makin group has announced plans to build their mill in Bruno Gerussi country north of Vancouver.

According to the provincial government, Makin's finances were the problem.

Sounds like a familiar excuse.

The lack of adequate washrooms at the Centennial Civic Arena in Drayton Valley continues to be a problem.

According to reliable sources people were lined up 20 deep to use the washrooms during the recent rodeo dance. Some people used the sink, showers and the adjoining parking lot.

The town shouldn't be renting out that facility under those conditions.

Former grads organize event

1100 expected for high school reunion

A project started almost two years ago will become a reality this weekend in Drayton Valley. Upwards of 1,100 people are expected to attend the Frank Maddock High School 25th (1960-85) reunion.

The visitors are expected to spend between $40,000 and $50,000 in the community during their three-day stay.

Former Frank Maddock High School students will start arriving Friday for registration (6 to 11 p.m.) and a family night at the high school.

Registration will continue on Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. at the school.

The big event of the reunion weekend is set for Saturday night at the Centennial Civic Arena where a banquet and dance will be held. During the evening numerous awards and presentations will be made.

Both the Drayton Valley Elks and the Legion are holding pancake breakfasts on Sunday morning between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. at which time former FMHS students and friends will meet.

A family day will be held during the afternoon (Sunday) at West Valley Park.

The guest list includes many former FMHS students from Alberta centres along with several from B.C.

A couple of long-distance guests will include Cameron Selin and Joanne Romansky, who are coming from Australia. Nancy Pickett and Allan Arnold of Nova Scotia will also attend.

Tom McManus, a former FMHS principal who now makes his home in Calgary, is also expected.

More than 100 volunteers

More than 100 volunteers will give their time to the reunion before it's over, but it's been people like Brenda and Danny Thompson, Pat Bouchard, Jean Chaney, Cindy Brooks, Karen Mohn, Gloria Wallace, Doug Ibbotson, Judy Karach and Shirley Urchysyn who have shown amazing dedication to the project.

This committee met every month for the past two years, increasing their meetings to weekly in the past three months.

Their task is to carry out the dream of former Frank Maddock High School principal Richie Woods who passed away earlier this year.

"The idea was Richie's. It's something he always wanted to do," explains Brenda Thompson.

One of the biggest jobs was coming up with a list of the students between 1960 and '85.

"We had to get hold of the yearbooks for the years 1960 to '70 because the school didn't have any registers," Thompson says.

From those lists, contact through family and friends started. At the start there was a potential of 3,000 students and teachers with the organizers looking at attracting about one-third.

Their 1,100 guest list for the weekend is about on target.

If there's one thing the committee isn't happy about, it's the response from local grads.

"It's been frustrating from that standpoint as we are looking for their help," Thompson stated.

But despite the months of meetings and frustrations that go with organizing an event of this size, the committee plans to enjoy the reunion. Hopefully, they will be recognized during the weekend for their efforts.

Evelyn Kynoch, Tom McManus expected.

Powerhouse education

New program to focus on literacy skills

By Anne Griffiths

Without reading you ain't nothing. You just another human being walking around this earth being wasted (e.g. age 32)

Around one out of five adults in Alberta cannot read well or cannot read at all.

There are people in Drayton Valley who share this problem. A project just beginning aims to give these people a second chance. It will focus on developing skills in literacy — the ability to read and write well enough to function in the life and work of the community. The program will be offered through Powerhouse Further Education Council.

Because it is embarrassing for an intelligent person to admit that he or she cannot read, many adult non-readers have become skilled at hiding their problem. As a result, those of us who read and write are often unaware that many people lack these skills.

The major goals of this project are to create a greater awareness of the need for adult literacy education, and to organize instructional programs to fill the need. The public information campaign will make use of posters, brochures, community television and presentations to community groups.

Adults wanting help will be tutored on a one-to-one basis by volunteer instructors. The program will be confidential and arranged to suit the needs of individual students.

Laverne Brown, a Drayton Valley resident who began tutoring three years ago has helped three Drayton Valley residents.

"I became interested in adult literacy when I realized my husband had a literacy problem. He was attempting his journeyman's certificate and finding it quite difficult. I began helping him, and ended by reading the examination to him so he could answer the questions."

Like many others, this man had previously hidden his problem, even from his own wife. As a result of tutoring and his own efforts, he has since been able to obtain the qualifications and thus improve his job prospects.

"It is vitally important to listen to your student and find out what their expectations are," said Brown. "But tutoring adults has given me a great deal of satisfaction."

Tutors do not need to be trained teachers or possess any formal qualifications. They will participate in four training sessions in September. Dependability, patience, enthusiasm and flexibility are the qualities which are important.

If you know someone who would like to help with reading or writing, tell him or her about this program. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer tutor, you should phone now. All enquiries can be directed to me at 542-5855 or Powerhouse Further Education Council (afternoons only) 542-3373.

Group accepts challenge

The 1986 Senior Games in Drayton Valley may be dead but the committee isn't.

Despite deciding not to continue with the games the committee did decide last week to continue their efforts in another direction.

Included with the motion to dissolve the games committee was the idea they will meet again in one month's time "to review the prospects of putting efforts into a long-term project for Drayton Valley."

Acting on a challenge from Mayor Bob

Mayhew the committee will meet again in a month to form a "sports foundation."

The foundation would work towards a long-term project for the town of Drayton Valley.

Mayhew said it was a shame to have all that effort go into a project and leave no long-term benefit for Drayton Valley.

The Alberta Sport Council (ASC) does have programs that would be helpful for this new committee, according to the ASC executive director Max Gibb.

Paddlers to visit Tuesday

The Parks Canada Centennial Canoe Pageant will make their first official stop in Drayton Valley next Tuesday.

The 44 paddlers and six officials are scheduled to leave Rocky Mountain House on July 1 and arrive at the Willey West campground near the North Saskatchewan Bridge between 2 and 4 p.m. on Tuesday afternoon.

The Drayton Valley stop is the first on their five-week trip along the North Saskatchewan River to Selkirk, Manitoba.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a steak supper and entertainment at the Elks Hall starting at 6:30 p.m. Tickets for the evening are available from Bruce Clemmer at Wild Card Enterprises, the chamber office (phone 542-1575), NRS Nichols Realty, the tourist booth or from tourist committee members.

The paddlers are scheduled to leave Rocky Mountain House at 1 p.m. on Monday and will travel about 35 miles along the 90-mile trip to Drayton Valley that day. They will camp overnight (July 2) at the Willey West campground.

New county

Residents urged to join in big decision

Dear Editor,

As chairman of the Yes Group, Western Ratepayers, I invite you and your readers to participate in a decision-making process that will affect your future and that of your children.

Our group was reactivated subsequent to notice by the provincial government that the large area surrounding Drayton Valley would be the subject of a study to determine the economic feasibility of the formation of a new county.

It is no secret that a great deal of time and effort have been expended on at least two occasions in the past toward the creation of a county in this area. The two previous attempts, even though they had overwhelming support, failed. Most people resigned themselves to living with a bad decision. Time has not remedied the inequities that existed then; in fact, these inequities are even more pronounced now.

My associates and I are convinced that the formation of a new county would correct the current imbalance.

The individual's access to representation would obviously improve because all county boundaries would be within an approximate 30-mile radius of Drayton Valley.

The problems unique to the oil and agriculture-based economies of this area would find more direct action. Presently their needs are overshadowed by demands of the large urban populations that exist in the respective jurisdictions. Attempts to solve common problems are hampered because the people find themselves divided by having to deal with no fewer than four municipal authorities: namely, the Counties of Parkland, Leduc and Wetaskiwin and the ID 14.

It is interesting to note that the economic situation existing in the new county area is not unlike that found on a national scale — in regard to the flow of revenues to the East and the pitiful return to the West. Even those cognizant of this inequity will probably be shocked when the government study reveals the actual figures relating to the amount of money taken out of the area in question in comparison to the amount returned in the form of annual expenditures.

A new jurisdiction here would give our elected representatives control over the disbursement of revenues. At the present time they find themselves in a situation where their hands are tied, mainly because they are out-voted by the representatives of the larger urban areas in the respective counties.

There are many questions to be answered and much work to be done. It is to this end that I would like to extend an open invitation to the residents of the proposed new county area to join us in convincing the province that the support for a new county is here, and even stronger than in the past. If you want to lend strength to this movement, become a member of the Yes Group, Western Ratepayers, by contacting the undersigned or any of the following members of the executive committee:

Robert Long - 542-5511; Betty McGee - 542-5125; Hamdon Hamdon - 542-5625; Horst Bohm - 542-5038; Alex Salfi - 542-4025; Otto Gure - 542-2050; Wm. Dusterhoft - 542-2014; Dean Meraw - 542-3983; Evelyn Haight - 542-2342; Kathy Polsfut - 542-6662.

I urge you to participate in decisions that will affect your future.

Yours truly,

Grad bash

Thanks to all

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to commend the graduating class of the Frank Maddock High School for completing their first successful 'safe grad party'.

A special commendation should go to a particular lady named Colleen Moroz who, I understand, formed a committee of young people who organized this event. Anyone who has ever organized such an event for approximately 300 people understands the kind of work and organizational skills that go into such an undertaking.

Also to be commended are Brian and Claudette Winder, Alex and Amy Blais and the Kinsmen/Kinette Clubs and our fine detachment of RCMP, who gave them encouragement, time, gas and support to these young people. They can all be proud of the way they organized and controlled a previously uncontrolled party.

Congratulations Grade! We parents and people in the community are very proud of your good sense.

Sincerely yours,
Claire Carefoot
Town councillor

Separate School Board meets

Local principal fights for Flashback Canada book

By Neil Speers

Ron Williams, principal at St. Anthony's school in Drayton Valley, fought for and won the right to use a textbook no longer authorized by the government.

The textbook, Flashback Canada, was at one time a prescribed book for students. Recently, the Curriculum Audit Committee, under Education Minister Dave King, had asked it be withdrawn from Alberta schools.

Citing problems with the view of natives in Canada taken by the book, the committee asked the book to be withdrawn by June 30.

However, Williams feels the book is suitable and asked the Separate School Board last week for permission to continue its use.

"As far as I'm concerned, this book gives a fair and balanced account of Canadian history," commented Williams.

Calling the committee's report "garbage", Williams said "I will stack my knowledge of history against that of anyone on King's wimpy committee."

Williams has a Masters degree in Education with a major in history.

He said because of the Keegstra affair in Red Deer, the government has bent under pressure from minority groups.

Taking each of the examples cited in the report from the book, Williams explained how those situations were actually what the book stressed, with the exception of the third example. Williams said he could not understand how the audit committee had drawn the conclusion it did about that section of the book. The example dealt with the signing of treaties by the natives.

The committee said the example showed the Indians to be happy with the treaties. Reading from the book itself, Williams pointed out how that was not the case with the treaties.

"Everything that is negative about natives, they want removed," Williams commented.

Board member Ernie Hasenlever said if this were a "totalitarian government", all of the history books would be rewritten, and so he was "wary" of actions such as this to remove certain books. He added he had "no trouble accepting this book."

Various board members commented on how "any book could be misused" and how it really depends on the teacher to give an accurate account of history.

Head count up

Drayton Valley's population has only increased by 11 over the past year.

Unofficial statistics released by the town show the population at 4,935 compared to 4,924 last year. The final figure will be known in about six weeks from the provincial Municipal Affairs office.

Mayor Bob Mayhew was among the disappointed.

"I thought we might hit 5,000 based on the home and apartment occupancy," he explained.

"However, I'm pleased with the activity in the area," the mayor added.

Hospital SEED sprouts

A dormant SEED has finally sprouted at the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex.

Although it was earlier reported the SEED program, a federal program for hiring students, was turned down, Jim Jansen, executive director of the hospital, announced last week he received notice the hospital would get the program after all.

Jansen said either more money was injected by the government into the program or a project somewhere else fell through, allowing money to be redistributed.

On July 14, seven students will be able to begin work at the hospital. One will be a pharmacy assistant, the remainder will be residential aids to the senior citizens.

The hospital is looking for students who are looking at getting into the health care profession, explained Jansen. "Plus it gives them a chance to earn money to get back to university," added Jansen.

Recreation

Training is full-time job

Kathy Harke takes superhorse award in Red Deer

By Lorne Christensen
Harke and horse are two names, that are synonymous in the Drayton Valley area.

At Harold and Jackie Harke's riding arena north of Drayton Valley the reasons are evident. They have approximately 60 registered horses and their daughter Kathy has been training horses for four years.

The 24-year-old Kathy trains 14 at a time, according to her mother Jackie.

Kathy got an early start riding in her first show at the age of four and showing her first quarter horse at age 13.

Now training horses has become a full-time job for the graduate of Grand Trunk School in Evansburg. She trains horses from Calgary, Rimby, Mayerthorpe and several local animals.

"We don't have the time to work our own, she can't ride 14 a day," Jackie pointed out.

It takes about eight hours a day to properly work eight to nine horses, so some of the animals don't get ridden every day.

But now at least they can ride every day of the year inside the large riding arena they have built.

"We had to build one or get out of it," Jackie said.

The weather made too many days uncomfortable to ride with the snow, wind or rain.

"Only bad thing is no days off on rainy days," Jackie added.

They built the arena with the help of two boys in the Canada World Youth program. One was from Toronto while the other from Indonesia.

The boy from Indonesia had never had a hammer in his hand, Jackie explained, and they built the arena after the show season in September, finishing it around Christmas.

"He (the boy from Indonesia) could pound nails with his mits on," Jackie chuckled.

Besides keeping busy with training horses the Harkes also do a lot of travelling to horse shows.

There are 27 Quarter Horse Association (QHA) shows in Western Canada that take up most of the summer. They start at the end of March and the last show is in November.

In November it's Canada's top show in Edmonton and then it's on to the world finals in Oklahoma.

But before Kathy can go she must accumulate points throughout the season.

A task she is well under way with.

At a recent show in Red Deer, that broke records for being the largest in North America, Kathy and her horse Whiskey Gold won the Super Horse award.

At the same event she got QHA points in trail, hunter, hunter saddle, hunter hack, western riding, western pleasure and barrel racing.

About 15 to 20 of the top horses will qualify in each event for the nationals and the show in Oklahoma.

But Kathy isn't the only one training at the arena. Every night several "youth" from the area come to practice.

The youth, under 19 years of age, are learning "responsibility and values" Jackie Harke said.

"There are some that have never had anything to do with horses and they turn out to be the best competitors there are," she added.

But success doesn't come easy.

Travelling is a big part of the horse business.

In July they will spend a lot of time on the road at different shows.

At the end of June they will go north for eight days and then home for one. Then it's back on the road to Saskatchewan for seven more days, then back home and then down to Red Deer for another six days.

The hard work has paid off for the Harkes in terms of winning.

"We really enjoy doing it but we won't get wealthy on it," Jackie Harke pointed out.

Graham is winner at Devon swim meet

Kelly Graham, an Evansburg swimmer who competes with the local Neptune club, came away the big winner in last Sunday's meet in Devon.

Kathy Groulx was another local swimmer to do well, she got a first in the 100-metre freestyle and a second in the 50-metre freestyle.

Seven clubs competed in the event and the Drayton Valley Neptunes finished fifth overall. The meet was stopped with 14 events remaining because of the weather threatening the outdoor pool.

Other local swimmers to do well included Jonathan Setterlund with a 3rd in the backstroke, a 6th in the freestyle, butterfly and breast-stroke. Kevin Oscar took a 4th in the backstroke, an 8th in the breast-stroke and 9th in freestyle.

Pembina Nordic Ski Club

Trails get grant for development

The Pembina Nordic Ski Club has received a $4,600 grant to help develop trails.

The grant came from Alberta Recreation and Parks and according to Eric Lloyd, a club director, it will mean the club can begin working on their trails in mid-July.

"We hope to start actual work later on in July," Lloyd added.

The money, first applied for in March, will be used to upgrade the present trails and construct new ones at the site northeast of Drayton Valley along the North Saskatchewan river.

The project, also being jointly sponsored by the Drayton Valley Legion, Lloyd said, and Triple L Enterprises has made some brush moving donations.

The club will use the money to hire several students to do chainsaw work and then eventually mechanical brush equipment will be used to groom the trails.

The work should be finished in time for the 1985-86 ski season Lloyd said.

He also pointed out that any organization or people interested in helping can contact him at 542-4696 (home) or at 894-3696 (work).

Billie Rose stands beside the creek named in his honor.

Members honored for life

By Lorne Christensen
There are only six of them. Six life-time members of the Drayton Valley golf club. Their names are inscribed on a plaque in the clubhouse in honor of their contributions to the club.

Billie Rose, Ross Jevne, Les Tucker, Maurice Snelgrove, Nick Urchyshyn, and Red Mattoon have received the honor so far.

Each has done a lot for the golf club and are now being recognized for it.

Rose and Jevne were awarded the honor in 1978, the first year it was given out. In 1982 Urchyshyn and Mattoon received the award with Snelgrove and Tucker being honored in 1985.

Rose, a former winner of the Brier in curling, was an Imperial Oil agent in Drayton Valley. He was one of the first power cart owners on the course. Rose Creek was named after him because he accidentally put his cart in the creek.

Jevne homesteaded in the Rocky Rapids area in the 1930s and worked as a trucker. He did a lot of volunteer work around the course.

Urchyshyn was one of the original members and builders of the club. According to Les Tucker, another life-time member, Urchyshyn is an avid golfer who would be playing "rain or shine." Urchyshyn now lives in Summerland, B.C. where he is continuing to golf.

Mattoon was the club president before Les Bannerman, the current president. He helped around the club a lot and was another one of the original builders of the club.

Tucker, a farmer in the area, took care of the course for several years and volunteered his services frequently to the club.

Snelgrove is another former president. He served for two terms. He also ran the pro shop for a while in addition to managing the liquor store in Drayton Valley.

All six were awarded the honor as a way of thanking them for their services, club pro Howard Vickers pointed out.

Vickers also said they were the guys that kept the club going and "set the standards."

There is a yearly selection for the awards but the committee does not have to select a new life-time member every year.

The award is based on three things — public service, executive service and promotional profile — according to the criteria of the selecting committee.

In addition, before someone can be considered for the honor they must be a minimum of 60 years old. Only two life memberships can be awarded annually and the selection committee is made up of three people.

One of the things the honor includes is not having to pay membership fees.

Aces drill D & S squad

Deve Darrogh did his part but it wasn't enough as the D & S Drillers dropped a 15-8 Oilfield Baseball League decision to visiting Thorsby Aces last week.

First baseman Darrogh went five for five at the plate with three singles and two doubles, but his Driller mates still fell 15-8 to the Aces.

Pitching hurt the Drillers as they were tagged for 18 hits. The Aces put the game out of reach with five runs in the fifth and ninth innings.

Greg Bowlik went the distance for the win although he was tagged for 14 hits, including five by Darrogh. Ron Yurkewich, who started for the Drillers, suffered the loss.

The loss was the Drillers' seventh straight while the win left Thorsby with a 3-4 win-loss record.

Soccer finishes up

Minor soccer is finished for another year "after the most successful year to date" according to minor soccer president Simon Kelly.

Kelly said 156 kids participated this year in the program and he is hoping to see about 200 for next year.

He added that they may form all-star teams from the different age groups and go onto higher competition.

"Kids will get the benefit of the house league and kids that could excel can excel," Kelly explained.

One all-star team was formed for a game last weekend against an Edson squad. But the weather forced the game to be called after only 15 minutes. It was 1-0 for the Edson team when the game was called and Kelly said he was happy with the team's performance.

Kelly said he was also happy with the participation level in the minor soccer program and attributed it to "anybody can kick a ball."

Law wins RCMP golf

Evansburg golfer Dale Law came away the winner in the 9th annual RCMP golf tournament in Evansburg on Wednesday.

Law shot a 74 on the course to tie with Drayton Valley's Jeff Smith and Doug Bangle of Edson.

His victory came after a playoff putt on the 9th green. The winner was determined by which player got their ball closest to the hole.

Other winners during the day included Barry Johansson from Hinton with the longest drive of 270 yards on the 500-yard number 2 hole.

The closest shot to the pin on the par-three number 9 hole was Arnold Bucholz of Evansburg.

One of the more interesting shots during the tournament came off the club of Bill Bussy from Stettler. Bussy won the goofiest golf shot award after his tee-off on the par 3 third hole went into the cup on the sixth green.

Ski club expands

The Drayton Valley Ski Club has been given more than $70,000 by Parkland County to proceed with their expansion plans.

The cheque, from MCR grant sources, makes it possible for the ski club to build a new chalet and also purchase more land.

President of the ski club Al Maik said they will build the new chalet in the same spot where the old one now stands.

The old building, which is 20 years old, is becoming a fire hazard Maik added. The new chalet will house the rentals and the ski patrol and they are hoping to start construction right away.

The 17-acre parcel of land that the club will purchase is southeast of the hill and the club has been using it in the past under a lease. The lease ran out this year so the club decided to buy the land, with $50,000 from the grant being used in the purchase.

Maik also wanted to thank all the people who helped the club in getting the grant especially Barb Smith, the Parkland County recreation director.

The grant is a milestone for the ski club Maik said.

Steve Fairlie, municipal police officer, Seba Beach, chips onto the 9th green in Evansburg.

Curling Club

Six sheet rink planned

The Drayton Valley Curling Club plans to meet next month to discuss funding methods for their proposed six-sheet rink.

President Alex Salvi reports that a letter will be sent to the provincial government to see if they are interested in the land where the existing building sits. The province has showed interest in the land previously.

The club hopes to get between $150,000 and $200,000 for the existing site.

That money will go a long way toward a new rink, expected to be ready in two years.

The curling club would like to build their new facility at West Valley Park. The project has the support of the second-ice facility committee who would like to add to the curling rink once it's built.

"We looked at building at the golf course, but the facility wouldn't be used year round, like we hope it will," Salvi admitted.

Once the curling club gets a reply from the provincial government they can approach the town with their plans.

Salvi says it's very important for the club to get busy.

"The existing facility will only last another two years. Even that second year is questionable with the condition of the ice plant. We are patching the plant where work is needed and don't want to enter into a major overhaul," Salvi explained.

The exhibition traces the children's creative development and features a wide range of subject matter to illustrate the mature color sensitivity and accomplished draftsmanship of these young Japanese students.

Don't miss the opportunity of viewing these exhibits from the northern prefecture of Hokkaido, the northernmost island in the group of four which makes up the country of Japan.

Brochure delayed

Evergreen group meet in Wildwood

Membership is a major concern of the Evergreen Tourist Association.

Manager Doug Woodhouse told a director's meeting at Wildwood last week that 50 municipalities had signed up but only 25 members were paid and another 22 were pending. The association had 145 members last year.

As a result, the association's summer brochure has been delayed until mid-July.

In defence of the manager who hasn't had time to sell memberships, Evergreen Tourist Association president Piet Steen said Woodhouse has been busy getting Spruce Grove into the fold. The manager made 10 trips to Spruce Grove to talk with the council who originally said the association didn't do enough for the town, but have since joined for the year on a probation basis.

Peter Bandscherer of Hinton told the meeting of an idea for a major tourist attraction on Highway 16. He envisions a live chess game on a two-acre 'green square' at a shopping mall in Hinton.

The tourist association gave their support to the idea but felt the big push had to come from the Hinton Chamber of Commerce and town council.

Alex Didow of Grand Cache also gave a presentation on the availability of postcards. Most of the communities represented appeared interested.

Bruce Clemmer, chairman of the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce tourist committee gave a detailed report on their projects.

Clemmer passed out copies of a new four-color place mat, new buttons, the town brochure and introduced RIGBY, Drayton Valley's mascot. He also told of the July 2 visit of 44 Parks Canada paddlers and promoted the community's Sept. 6-8 trade fair.

The tourist association will have a display at the Calgary Stampede. Edson, hosts of the 1986 Alberta Winter Games and Drayton Valley, hosts for the '86 Senior Games, have been offered display space at the July 8-14 Stampede.

Better customer service

Oiltown moves to convenient location

Oiltown Auto and Truck Centre in Drayton Valley has moved. They are now located at 5619-50 Avenue, across from the Beehive Workshop.

Better customer service was the main reason for their move to their new 2,500-square-foot location, according to owner Jason Colby.

Jason Colby

Oiltown, located on the south side of 50th Avenue, is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Look to the qualified staff at Oiltown to handle all your general auto repairs.

Everything from tune-ups, brake work, four-wheel alignment, wheel balancing, general maintenance, oil change, grease job to alignment work. They also handle General and Road King tires.

Oiltown is also a certified school bus inspection station. Many bus operators bring their vehicles in twice a year for a checkup.

"What we can't do here, we will get it done," Colby says.

While the staff at Oiltown is still getting used to their new home, plans are already underway to expand into air conditioning work.

Before you head out for holidays this summer, let the neighborhood professionals at Oiltown Auto and Truck Centre in Drayton Valley give your vehicle a road check.

On June 13 there was a Rock and Gem Club meeting at the Drop-In Centre.

On June 15 a group of 30 people came by bus from Edmonton's Bonnie Doon Bowling Club to Drayton Valley to have a fun day with bowlers from Breton and Drayton Valley.

We had lunch at the Drop-In Centre. There were prizes from the Drayton Valley club to Bonnie Doon and from Bonnie Doon to Drayton Valley. A good time was had by all.

Although it has been 10 years since Otto Guze had ridden a horse, he consented to accompany his son Dale on a pack trip up the Ram River a couple of weeks ago.

A coyote stole the Guze's meat supply from the river where it had been placed to keep cool. Fortunately, the Ram River teems with fish.

Have you seen the new town brochure prepared by the Chamber of Commerce?

The brochure committee is to be congratulated. The quality of paper used, the composition, and the photography make it a booklet of which to be proud.

Ellen Csokas is home recovering from major surgery.

Assemblage Control Bylaw

Bush party participants face stiff fines from County

Bush party participants in Parkland County could face fines of up to $2,500 as a result of a new bylaw.

The Assemblage Control Bylaw provides that "no person or persons shall hold, conduct, manage or organize an amusement, entertainment, parade, concert, athletic contest, sports contest, event or gathering without first having obtained a license."

County Administrator Otto Schuster said the RCMP had requested the passing of an assemblage bylaw "mainly because of motorcycle gangs."

Without such a bylaw a large party which gets out of hand can't be stopped, Schuster said.

The police generally know beforehand when a large bush party is planned, he said.

Under the authority of the bylaw the police will be able to attend the party before many people have had a chance to gather and will be able to ask to see a permit.

Where one has not been obtained, the police will have the legal right to require the revellers to disperse.

Coun. Ron Pollock, Division 1, said he hoped police officers would use "common sense and discretion" when applying the bylaw.

He and other councillors expressed concerns, when the bylaw was presented for first and second reading, that it could be used to disrupt peaceful family barbecues or community sports events.

Schuster said the bylaw allows room for interpretation. It gives the RCMP authority to act but they can "turn their back on other things."

The Assemblage Control Bylaw contains a clause which says it "does not apply to any amusement, entertainment, parade, concert, athletic contest, sports contest, event or gathering which takes place on lands or in a building, approved or intended for such activity, or to any family gathering on properties owned by a participant or a family member of such gathering."

The bylaw requires the person or persons wishing to hold or organize an event under circumstances not covered under this clause to apply in writing to a licensing officer appointed by the county.

The written application is to be submitted 30 days prior to the date on which the event is to take place and must be accompanied by the permission in writing of the owner of the lands on which it is to be held.

The licensing officer will have the authority to attach conditions to the license.

The posting of security may be required at the discretion of the officer to ensure compliance with the conditions of the license.

The officer has the authority to refuse the application for a license or to refer the application to council.

Owners of the land who permit an event to take place on their property without a license, if such a license is required under the terms of the bylaw, are subject to the penalties of up to $2,500.

A minimum daily fine of $2,500 will be levied, following a summary conviction, for every day the offence continues.

A person in default of payment of the fines will be subject to imprisonment for up to six months.

Anyone who participates in a gathering or event for which a license is required or who fails to comply with any condition attached to the license is liable to the same summary conviction and penalties as the organizers.

The penalties may be applied as well to anyone refusing to leave an event after being asked to do so by the police.

Coun. Ken Fahr, Division 4, voted against the bylaw after asking if it would be possible to get a license to hold a legal bush party.

Schuster said a license could be issued but a bond could first be required. The application could also be refused.

Graduation parties would have to get a license, he said in answer to another question.

No Makin mill in Drayton Valley

Makin Pulp and Paper will not be building their proposed $125 million mill in Drayton Valley.

The Calgary-based company ended years of speculation last week with the announcement they were going to build in B.C. north of Vancouver.

Money, or lack of it, was the apparent downfall in the pulp mill coming to Drayton

Valley.

Fred McDougall, Alberta's Deputy Minister of Renewable Resources says he had no problem with the plant, nor with the availability of untapped supplies of aspen.

popular in the foothills.

All the provincial government wanted to know was if Makin had all its financial ducks in a row. McDougall says that request has never been met.

Come Out & Celebrate!

There's rodeo action this long Canada Day weekend at Entwistle.

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association will provide the entertainment Saturday and Sunday with performances both days at 2 p.m.

The rodeo grounds are located one mile south of Entwistle.

Rodeo events include bareback, saddle bronc, bull riding, calf roping, team roping, ladies' barrels, steer wrestling, junior barrels, wild horse race, wild cow milking, local businessmen's cow riding, sheep riding and bloomer races.

There will also be a dance in the Entwistle Community Hall Friday and Saturday and a marathon bingo Sunday, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the hall.

On the holiday Monday, a pancake breakfast starts at 8 a.m. in the community hall followed by a parade at 11 a.m. and an afternoon of entertainment starts at noon.

Congratulations to Drayton Valley's Iris Tuftin for her $300 jackpot at the Brandon pro rodeo. It's always nice to win, but what we often overlook are the expenses.

This weekend is another long trip down the road for Tuftin and the other professional cowgirls and cowboys.

Williams Lake, B.C., Ponoka and Swift Current, Sask. are the stops.

Looks like a lot of travelling, especially for barrel racers like Iris Tuftin who have to travel with their horse.

The latest pro standings show Tuftin in fourth place with earnings of $3,637. Her Brandon paycheck will have to be added to that.

Despite her first season on the professional ladies' barrel racing circuit, Tuftin is keeping some excellent company.

Anne Lawes of Provost is the ladies' barrel racing leader followed by Amie Stone of Madden and Sundre's Barb Lucas.

Cody Snyder, world bull riding champion in

'82, suffered a broken left collarbone at the Rocky Mountain House pro rodeo two weeks ago. He is expected to be out of action for a month to six weeks.

If you're heading out to Calgary for the Stampede, the dates are July 5 to 14.

The Buck Lake Stampede will be held the weekend of July 12 and 13. Entries close July 3. Phone 388-2105. The Friday performance starts at 6 p.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturday.

There's excellent camping facilities at Buck Lake for you rodeo campers.

The Foothills Cowboy Association stop this weekend is at Drumheller with performances Sunday and Monday at 1 p.m. They will also have chuckwagon and chariot races along with sulky races.

For more information call 823-9187.

KLONDIKE FIREBALL

By Bruce C. Free

We're bound across Alaska
Steaming through this rugged range,

She's the Klondike Fireball.

Olds College

Alberta women meet in July

By Bev Brooks

District Home Economist

Hundreds of women from across Alberta will meet at Olds College on July 22, 1985. This marks the beginning of the 54th annual Alberta Women's Week. A week of fellowship, learning, fun and relaxation. The theme "The Best Possible You" will be addressed by motivating speakers and an exciting selection of activities and sessions.

It will start with the keynote address by Joyce Irving, a well known educator in the areas of self-esteem and leadership.

A special feature of the week will be a panel discussion about 'farm women roles'. Nobody knows farm women like a farm woman therefore, the panel will consist of women active in the farming industry. This feature should be of interest to all farm (and non-farm) women. A variety of select-session topics will also be presented throughout the week.

Topics range from farm partnerships, running a home business and farm and family finances to food drying, harvest help, fit for life, farm safety and more.

Roll this steamer Casey,
Pour power to her packs,
Dust the trail, boot her tail
Flame steel shiny tracks.
Lay a strip, let her rip
Thunder on the rails!
Throttle steam to Bennett Lake
On our miner's, Thunder Trail!

Listen to our engine,
Blast a din of thunder claps.
Hear echos bounce from peak to peak.
Across the mountain pass
Hear rumbles from steel drivers,
Watch her plunging con rods thrash,
See clouds of black smoke billow
Jet skyward from her stack.
Oh, we're bound across Alaska
Via rail to stake our claims
Aboard a mountain special
As she thunders along this range.
Hear blasts from her whistle
Echo o'er mountain walls,
Hear echos bounce o'er mountain peaks
Near Glacier Canyon Falls.

We roll toward the Yukon
Aboard this special train,
Rumble across Alaska
Bound to stake our claims,
Hear our chugging engine
Speeding near glacier drains,
Steaming along a narrow pass
Through haunts of mountain range.

Listen to our engine
Huff a din of thunder claps,
By misty, rumbling Juneau Falls
On range of wild outback.
We steam from Port Scagway
Near waters of Chatham Strait,
And thunder through the White Pass
Railborne, hauling freight.

We steam our mighty engine
Into B.C. frontier range,
Billow smoke o'er misty haunts
Plume rocky highland plains.
Whilst we roll along, sing a song
Miners aboard our train
We'll strike a vein of yellow gold
On Klondike Yukon claims.
Watch our big black steamer speed
On narrow railbed tracks,
By misty, tumbling Atlin Falls
In wooded haunts outback.
We steam from Port Scagway
Near waters of Chatham Strait,
And thunder through the White Pass
To railhead, Bennett Lake.
Oh, we're bound to Whitehorse town
Steamborne through wild terrain,
Aboard our mighty engine
Of Scagway/Dawson fame.
She's dynamic and she's heavy
Famous as steamers all,
It's a White Pass mountain special
She's the Klondike Fireball.

Recreation board

Claire cares about grant

Claire Carefoot is concerned where culture grant money is going.

The Drayton Valley town councillor learned last week that $98,490 was available through the new community recreation culture grant.

The recreation board was told last week that $24,820 of the CRC grant money was earmarked for the library. The town will match that grant.

Councillor Carefoot expressed her concerns at the meeting, asking about other culture groups in town.

"I don't want other cultural groups left out," she explains.

"I realize the library's situation. But I'm going to take a more detailed look at the grant," Carefoot added.

Legion lounge changes

One thing leads to another, at least for the planned renovations to the Drayton Valley Legion's main lounge.

"Laying new carpet, that's what got the whole project started," commented Bob Metcalfe, spokesman for the Legion.

The Legion was looking at replacing the carpet in the lounge, which is becoming quite worn, said Metcalfe, when they decided to go further and refinish the whole room.

The plans call for having oak panelling four feet up the wall from the floor, and a foot and a half from the ceiling with a textured wallpaper between, according to Metcalfe.

Although not sure of the exact amount being bid by tender, he said the job is apt to be quite expensive.

Dangerous territory

Fay Wagner is a familiar sight to students from the Eldorado School in Drayton Valley, where she is a crossing guard. The corner of 50th Avenue and 50th Street has been the scene of several near accidents in the couple of months she has been working there. Many drivers do not seem to see the children as they cross the road, she says.

Hire A Student

By Heather Parker

When you start your job search it is important to use as many resources as possible to find a job in today's competitive market.

Personal contacts are the best way to find a job. Tell people you are looking for work and ask them to contact you if they hear of any job openings.

The second most successful method is employer canvassing — either by telephone, letter or personal contact.

Classified and career sections of newspapers list job openings, as do employment bulletins, trade journals, radio and television.

Employment agencies such as Hire-A-Student and Canada Employment Centres provide free referral service to job seekers and employers. Private agencies charge employers for their services. It is important to treat the counsellor at the employment agency as an employer.

Creating your own job will help you gain experience in all aspects of running a business and can be quite profitable.

Volunteer work is important in terms of the experience and skills gained that can be used to your advantage in future job searches, even if it is not profitable at the present time.

Practicing a mock employer canvassing situation with a centre manager can be beneficial in determining more effective methods of marketing yourself.

If you want to try this or if you need further information feel free to call me at 542-7661 or drop by my office at 5219-53 Ave.

Pasture rental questions answered

At long last we have had some decent rain and the temperatures are encouraging growth in our pastures. I suspect this has something to do with the number of calls I have received on pasture rental rates.

I wish there was a simple dollar value to give you to use. It is unfair and a little ridiculous to just come up with a figure, like $10 per AUM. Each situation is different, and as a result you should calculate your own special price.

grasses for a long time. Higher stocking rates will shorten the lifespan of our best grasses and replace them with poorer (less nutritious) varieties.

Another thing that will change stocking rate is the use of cross-fencing and rotational pasture techniques. These can greatly increase the productivity of pasture and your profitability. Check out the work being done by the West Central Forage Association.

Now that the basics are covered, all you have to do is to work out what it will cost and what you will charge. You have two choices. On one hand you can use area averages, say about $8 to $12 per head per month. Or you can wait for next week when I'm going to outline the proper way to calculate pasture rental in this column. See you then.

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5368

Let's start at the top. First we need to know what an Animal Unit Month (AUM) really is. One AUM is the amount of pasture required to feed one animal unit for one month. An animal unit is defined as one mature 1,000-pound cow eating about 26 pounds of grass per day.

Okay, we run more animals than just cows, so here are some other values. A mature bull is 1.5 animal units. Yearling steers and heifers are between 0.67 and 0.75 animal units depending on their weights. Sheep are about 0.2 AUM each and a horse is about 1.25 AUMs.

Next we need to know just how many animals we can pasture. There is a vast range, too, depending on how you treat your pasture. Speaking in general terms, good quality pasture, unfertilized, will require about three acres per AUM. Simply put, to graze 20 head of cows for one month we need 60 acres. For 20 head grazed two months we need 120 acres.

If you fertilize pasture, we can expect more productivity. That changes our carrying capacity from three acres per AUM to two acres per AUM. That is how fertilizer pays for itself.

By now you may have noticed there are a lot of people who have more than one animal on two acres of land, so my figures here seem very low. The difference is how the pasture is treated. My examples here are aimed at the whole district, not one farm, and they are designed to maintain

Deans apply stucco on Saskatoon hall

Charlie and Sherry Deans of Evansburg have been in Saskatoon lately applying stucco to a large assembly hall of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The project, completed in only six days by volunteer labor of 4,000 workers, is a first in Canada. The building is a 24,500 square-foot structure, containing auditoriums, libraries, classrooms, restrooms and two suites.

It is carpeted and air conditioned and has a seating capacity for 1200. It is not a pre-fab building, but a beautiful structure completed from raw materials brought to a prepared concrete foundation and wood sub-floor, meeting or exceeding all local building codes — yet completed in record time.

The Deans were joined by other local people in their task: Tim Evan, Duane Hickie, Leonard and Joan Karlson and Danny Shook.

They had a tremendous job to do, wetting the walls, applying the tarpaper, wire and nails, putting on the scratch coat, finish coat and texturing. The finished product was a beautiful compliment to the Tyndall stone finish.

Local youth participate in Alberta government Forum

Sherry Hoffin was a participant in this year's Forum for Young Albertans recently.

Founded in 1978, the forum is a nonpartisan affiliated organization that teaches Alberta high school students about the municipal and provincial levels of government.

Hoffin, along with 43 other students, resided at St. Joseph's College on the U of A campus in Edmonton where they were engaged in a week of various activities.

Throughout the week they met with well-known political figures such as Lieutenant Governor Hunley, Senator Olson and Mayor Decore. They listened to speeches about the media, the Heritage Trust Fund and the Official Opposition.

Part of their experience was performing a mock parliament in which they debated two bills. Hoffin's group, the opposition, attempted to pass a bill on seat belt legislation. The government declared a National Culture Day. This proved to be an exercise in speaking and debating as well as in cooperation with group members and following house rules and procedures.

The group toured Rutherford House, legislative buildings, city hall, Provincial Museum, the Science Centre, West Edmonton Mall and held a barbecue at Emily Murphy Park.

Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps presented Hoffin with souvenirs and a personal tour of the legislative buildings.

The week ended with a banquet and dance at the College.

Hoffin leaves for Ottawa July 7 to participate in Encounters With The Third World.

A grand total of $1,176.45 was collected for the Canadian Cancer Society in our area. A big thank you to all the donors, Delia Scrybalo, Jean Sargeant and Linda Moody for their help in canvassing. We are nearly $200 up from last year.

What they found

These gloves, hats, scarves, snowsuits and other oddities have been collecting in the basement of Eldorado School. If not claimed by the end of July, they will be for sale at the hospital auxiliary thrift shop. And this collection only goes up to the Easter break.

Leduc gives Willey funds

The County of Leduc has agreed to release almost $105,000 toward the construction of the Willey West campground located on the North Saskatchewan River near Drayton Valley.

Payment will be made subject to a "quick claim," or a guarantee from the contractor that no further claims are to be made on the work done, secretary-treasurer Fred Roloff confirmed.

Funds released include $49,800 from an Alberta Transportation grant, $12,000 from Mobil Oil, $10,000 from a provincial major cultural and recreation grant and $10,000 matched by the county. About $3,000 was provided from surplus county recreation funds and $10,000 generated from bank interest.

Additional funds required to reach the $105,000 mark are to be provided from county taxation funds allocated to the Breton region in 1985 and 1986.

Around the Province

Sewage plant repairs approved

The environment department has approved the spending of $200,000 for modifications to Taber's mechanical sewage plant which has been plagued by serious problems for the past two years.

Record price paid

The grand champion steer at the 22nd annual Kneehill 4-H beef show and sale sold for $1.66 per pound. This is an increase of 23 cents per pound over last year's price.

Building permits decline

The City of Leduc reports $4.2 million in building permits during the month of May, pushing their yearly total to $6.5 million. However, that is well off last year's figure of $8.4 million for the five months of the year.

Town eyes policing bill

As Mayerthorpe eyes the 1,500 population mark town officials are getting concerned over increased costs. If Bill 59 is passed, as it is expected to be the Solicitor General's office, the town will have to come up with an additional $9,000 to $10,000 for RCMP costs. That will climb to $75,000 after five years. At the present time Mayerthorpe receives policing from the RCMP through a provincial contract at no cost to the town.

Olds grads

Six area students have graduated from Olds College.

They include Dean Fisher, Wendy Nelson and Coreen Aro of Breton, Lyle Ekroth of Entwistle, Tracy Watson from Alder Flats and Betty Ann MacKenzie of Drayton Valley.

In all, 450 students were recognized and rewarded at the Olds College graduation exercises.

Various graduation prizes were handed out with the prestigious Olds College Faculty Association outstanding merit award going to land agent graduate Christina Arvidsson of Camrose.

Greenland is next stop for Alder Flats area missionary

Cathy Brzus.

By Neil Speers

Only a few months after being a missionary in Mexico, Cathy Brzus of Alder Flats is getting set to head for Greenland.

Unsure of her possible duties, she said it will probably be something to do with schools.

The child evangelism program took up much of the three months Brzus spent in Mexico. With the other 32 missionaries who went down, she put on plays and taught religion to the children in the country.

Brzus also spent a day in the food bank where people would have to spend a certain amount of time working and would receive a week's worth of food for their family in return.

"It almost made you feel superior" to be handing out food, she commented.

The first city Brzus said she went to was one of the poorest in Mexico, adding with a shake of her head how it was "so dirty."

"It was a shock to see people who had no money to pay for food," Brzus said.

One of the worst parts for her was how half the population is under 15, and the parents just could not afford to feed their children, she said.

Brzus related how in one orphanage, there were six children who were fed and clothed, but no one was there to spend time with them or love them.

The missionaries went to the cities of El Paso/Juarez, Chihuahua, Torreon, Fresnillo and Zacatecos.

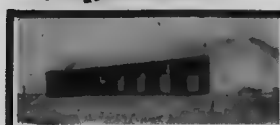

It was another shock, though not as severe, when coming back to Canada, she said.

"The time it [her experiences] comes back to me more than anything is when I watch The Price Is Right," Brzus explained.

The missions are set up by Youth With A Mission, a non-denominational organization. The training for the missionaries takes about three months, most of which was done in Edmonton, Brzus said.

It cost her $2000 for the training, trip, and lodgings in Mexico, the money was raised by herself.
